DETAILED ACTION

1. In Response to the remarks filed March 27th, 2009, the previous election/restriction requirement has been withdrawn, and the following election/restriction requirement is pending.

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1 and 21-24, drawn to process of machining an outer joint part or inner joint part of a ball joint using disc tools.

Group II, claim(s) 25-32, drawn to a process of machining an outer joint part or inner joint part of a ball joint using finger tools

Group III, claim(s) 35-37, drawn to device of machining an outer joint part or inner joint part of a ball joint using disc tools.

Group IV, claim(s) 38-47, drawn to device of machining an outer joint part or inner joint part of a ball joint using finger tools.

3. The inventions listed as Groups I, II, III, and IV do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: in accordance with the guidance set forth in MPEP section 1850, it has been determined a posteriori, i.e., after taking the prior art into consideration, that the features common to all the claims (machining an outer joint part of an inner joint part of a constant velocity universal ball joint, which outer joint part or inner joint part comprises a longitudinal axis (Aa, A1) and a number of ball tracks, wherein the ball tracks are each arranged circumferentially in pairs whose central track lines are positioned in planes extending parallel relative to one another) do not constitute “special technical features” since they do not make a “contribution” over the prior art in light of at least Ouchi et al. (U.S. Pat No. 6,299,542) specifically Fig.13, for example.

4. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species A: Drawn to Figs 1a-3

Species B: Drawn to Figs 4a-9

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

5. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:
Species A: claims 1, 21-24, and 33-37
Species B: claims 25-47

The following claim(s) are generic: There appear to be no generic claims.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: in accordance with the guidance set forth in MPEP section 1850, it has been determined a posteriori, i.e., after taking the prior art into consideration, that the features common to all the claims (machining an outer joint part of an inner joint part of a constant velocity universal ball joint, which outer joint part or inner joint part comprises a longitudinal axis (Aa, Ai) and a number of ball tracks, wherein the ball tracks are each arranged circumferentially in pairs whose central track lines are positioned in planes extending parallel relative to one another) do not constitute "special technical features" since they do not make a "contribution" over the prior art in light of at least Ouchi et al. (U.S. Pat No. 6,299,542) specifically Fig.13, for example.

6. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
